

STATUS REPORT: BUSINESS AMBITION FOR 1.5°C RESPONDING TO THE CLIMATE CRISIS

#OurOnlyFuture

FOREWORD: A CAMPAIGN TO MAINSTREAM 1.5°C TARGETS AS THE NEW NORMAL FOR BUSINESS

Climate science is clear. The Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) Special Report on 1.5°C stated in 2018 that to avoid the worst effects of climate breakdown, global temperature increase must be capped at 1.5°C. To achieve this, emissions must be halved before 2030 and reach net-zero before 2050.

Back then, 2°C scenarios were the backbone of the Science Based Targets initiative's (SBTi) framework. Of the 220+ companies with approved targets, only a handful were consistent with limiting warming to 1.5°C.

We faced an important dilemma. The IPCC report was a stark reminder that every tenth of a degree matters. There was a clear case to ratchet up ambition in corporate target setting, but also warnings that doing so could slow momentum and set the bar at an unattainable level for most companies.

Answering to the urgency, a coalition including pioneer companies, civil society, all major business organizations and United Nations (UN) leaders, bet they could mainstream 1.5°C corporate climate action. A first for a multistakeholder coalition to align on such a bold ask ahead of the UN Secretary General's Climate Action Summit in September 2019, Lise Kingo — then CEO & Executive Director of the UN Global Compact — together with 20 leaders — including Patricia Espinosa, Executive Secretary of UN Climate Change (UNFCCC), Inger Andersen, Executive Director of UN Environment Programme (UNEP), Nigel Topping, then CEO of We Mean Business, and more, signed a call-to-action released as an open letter. They challenged private companies to make their critical contribution to limit the worst impacts of climate change by setting verifiable science-based targets through the SBTi consistent with keeping warming to 1.5°C. Backed by 28 early movers in the corporate sector, the Business Ambition for 1.5°C campaign was born.<sup>1</sup>

Despite some critics who deemed the effort too ambitious, we were on a mission to move conversations from what was easy and 'business as usual' to what was needed.

<sup>1</sup> The first companies to sign-up to the bold campaign included ACCIONA, AstraZeneca, BT, Dalmia Cement, Enel, Hewlett Packard Enterprises, Iberdrola, KLP, Levi Strauss & Co., Mahindra Group, Natura & Co, Novozymes, Royal DSM, SAP, Signify, Singapore Telecommunications Ltd (Singtel), Smart Phases Inc., Telefonica, Telia, Unilever, Vodafone, Zurich Insurance.

Much has changed since then. The bet paid off and went far above expectations; we have witnessed an unprecedented increase in ambition. Nationally, we have also increased climate ambition across some of the largest economies, including China, the United States, European Union, United Kingdom, India and Japan, among others. Within the corporate sector, 1.5°C-aligned targets are now the most common choice, representing 75% of all submissions to the SBTi so far in 2021. The Business Ambition for 1.5°C campaign has grown from 28 to more than 1000 companies worldwide in just over two years. Today, these companies represent over $23 trillion in market capitalization, more than the GDP of the United States.

Leading companies are already proving that 1.5°C-compliant business models are possible and these companies will be best-placed to thrive as the global economy undergoes a just transition to net-zero before 2050.

Acknowledging the unprecedented growth in ambition, but also, the still prevailing gap, we announced in July 2021 that we are making 1.5°C the central ambition in our target-setting framework. Targets with lower ambition will soon no longer be accepted. We have also launched the Net-Zero Standard — the world's first trusted verification framework for corporate net-zero targets — to give business leaders confidence that their near- and long-term climate action is aligned with science.

Governments must now respond to the growing movement of credible targets and fill the gaps with supportive policy to create a level playing field for business, incentivizing all companies to take ambitious climate action. Companies must also build trust in their commitments and set immediate, measurable, transparent, verifiable near-term and net-zero targets, and deliver on them. Leading companies must now disclose their 1.5°C-aligned climate action and the progress they are making on their verified targets. This transparency will be key as all companies — across all sectors and geographies — take urgent action in line with the 1.5°C goal and net-zero by joining the movement to secure #OurOnlyFuture.

1.5°C AS NEW NORMAL: ACHIEVEMENTS OF TWO YEARS OF A PIONEERING CAMPAIGN

A level of corporate action unimaginable five years ago is becoming the new normal today. Faced with the clear scientific evidence, more companies have understood that the challenge ahead pales in comparison to the risks of inaction, and to the economic opportunities that await those providing the solutions. Accelerating the uptake of bold corporate climate targets was the primary objective of Business Ambition for 1.5°C, the most ambitious SBTi campaign to date. In just over two years, what at one point in time was deemed impossible, was achieved: Today, 1.5°C aligned targets are mainstream.

In just over two years, we have mobilized more than a thousand companies worldwide to commit to set ambitious 1.5°C and net-zero aligned targets at the pace and scale required by science.

These achievements were made possible by the broad support and contributions the campaign received by partners such as local offices of SBTi partners WWF, WRI and CDP, UN Global Compact Local Networks, We Mean Business, Ceres, Global Citizen, 2Grad and many others. The UNFCCC Race to Zero campaign has also been instrumental in the exponential growth of the campaign globally.

CROSS-SECTOR ENGAGEMENT

Data as of 31 October 2021

"It is encouraging to see global companies setting science-based targets in line with the Paris Agreement. The science is clear: current levels of ambition are insufficient and businesses have a role to play in limiting temperature rise to 1.5°C."

"Business Ambition for 1.5°C has been a tremendous success in incentivizing a race to the top, signalling the emergence of a new normal in the way businesses are developing their strategies for the future, that is, by aligning their decarbonization plans with climate science and the 1.5°C goal in a robust and credible way."

DELIVERING REAL-WORLD EMISSIONS REDUCTIONS FOR A 1.5°C FUTURE: THE CHALLENGE AHEAD

WHAT HAVE COMPANIES COMMITTED TO?

Business Ambition for 1.5°C is an urgent call to action from a global coalition of UN agencies, businesses and industry leaders, in partnership with the Race to Zero.

From 2019 to 2021, the Business Ambition for 1.5°C Commitment Letter offered two options on how to join, allowing for flexibility and recognizing differences between sectors. Both options enabled companies to commit to science-based, 1.5°C ambition. Many businesses chose the highest level of climate ambition by committing to both options, developing near-term science-based targets aligned with 1.5°C scenarios alongside an explicit net-zero by 2050 commitment.

From November 2021, we ask that companies commit to 1.5°C and net-zero through the Standard Commitment Letter. These companies will also join the Business Ambition for 1.5°C campaign and the Race to Zero.

"The Science Based Targets initiative is a particularly important initiative that can make a tremendous difference and I want to commend the leaders in this industry who have taken that step."

WHERE DO CAMPAIGN COMPANIES STAND TODAY AND WHAT IS NEXT?

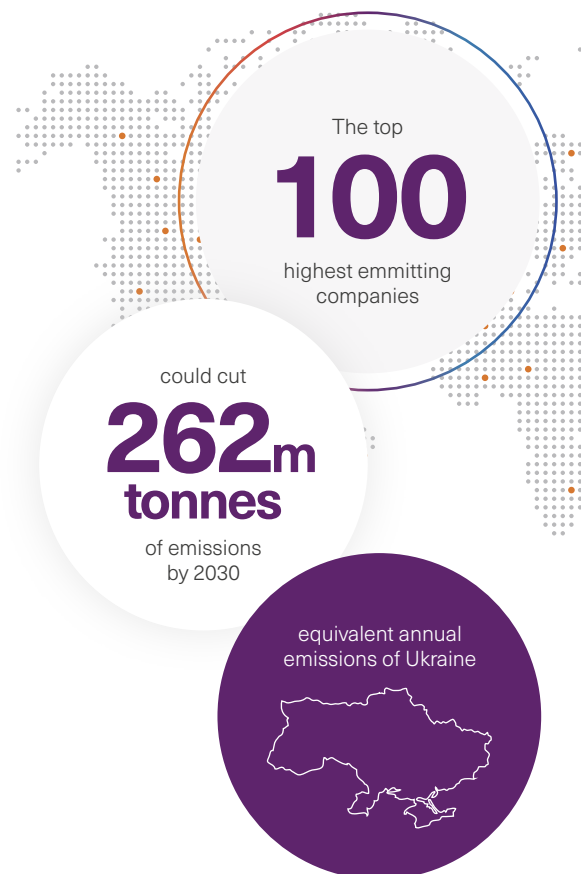

The accountability and credibility of corporate commitments is key to help build trust and delivery of corporate target-setting. Once a company has committed, they must submit science-based targets to the SBTi for validation within 24 months or they are removed from the SBTi website. Once a company's target is approved, it must report company-wide GHG emissions and progress against targets through annual reports, sustainability reports, the company's website, and/or disclosure through CDP's annual questionnaire.

More than 300 Business Ambition for 1.5°C companies are due to turn their bold commitments into action in 2022.

So far, out of 1045 companies that have signed up to the campaign, 348 have a 1.5°C-aligned validated target for their scope 1 and 2 emissions. They are now asked set net-zero targets using the SBTi Net-Zero Standard.

The stakes are high. When the 100 highest emitting companies in the campaign comply with their commitment, they will collectively cut more than 262 million tonnes of emissions by 2030 - equivalent to the annual emissions of Ukraine.<sup>2</sup>

This shows the scale of the contribution the private sector can make in the race to drive down emissions and points to the far greater reductions that are possible if more companies join this movement.

<sup>2</sup> Number calculated from the scope 1+2 emissions data disclosed by these 100 companies to CDP. And according to Climate Watch data, Ukraine's annual emissions were equivalent to 262 million tonnes in 2018. <https://www.climatewatchdata.org/countries/UKR>

EIGHT YEARS TO HALVE EMISSIONS

The latest IPCC report The Physical Science Basis states that changes to the Earth's climate are now "widespread, rapid, and intensifying" and we are on a course of warming of 2.7°C.<sup>4</sup> As Secretary-General Guterres has said, this is a planetary emergency and a "code red" for humanity. But we can fight back, with immediate and significant emissions reductions.

Companies with science-based targets are on track to halve emissions between 2020 and 2030 — exactly the pace and scale that's required by climate science.<sup>5</sup>

But we cannot celebrate before the job is complete. We need thousands more companies to set science-based targets and urgently deliver on their commitments to halve global emissions by 2030.

Recent SBTi research found that, despite significant progress in science-based target setting, no major G7 index is currently aligned with the Paris goals. Uptake also remains limited among companies in emerging economies as well as in energy intensive sectors.

To respond to this urgency and building on the momentum of Business Ambition for 1.5°C, the SBTi has launched a bold new strategy to accelerate and mainstream 1.5°C-aligned corporate targets to additional geographies and high-impact sectors. Acknowledging the unprecedented growth in ambition, but also the still prevailing gap, the SBTi is making 1.5°C the central ambition in our target setting framework. From 15 July 2022, targets with lower ambition will no longer be accepted.

643 companies joining Business Ambition for 1.5°C made a commitment to reach science-based net-zero by 2050, in addition to setting near-term 1.5°C aligned targets. This groundswell of support has helped us develop the World's First Net-Zero Standard - meaning that, for the first time, companies will be able to turn net-zero commitments into scientifically-sound, verifiable targets. The Standard clarifies the key role of decarbonization in corporate net-zero strategies and will help rebuild much needed trust in net-zero pledges by the private sector. It will enable companies to harness the momentum already achieved and support companies to set robust short- and long-term net-zero targets in line with climate science and the 1.5°C goal.

CORPORATE TARGET SETTING AND CLIMATE ADVOCACY IN TIMES OF A GLOBAL PANDEMIC

While these past two years have presented unprecedented challenges for businesses, it is a source of great encouragement to see that climate action is at the heart of their future plans — in spite of, or perhaps spurred on by, this pandemic. Indeed, the rate of uptake of the campaign, far from slowing down, has accelerated despite the COVID-19 pandemic.

When companies sign up to the campaign, they also commit to policy advocacy positions consistent with a 1.5°C future. The past two years have also seen important advocacy efforts from Business Ambition for 1.5°C companies, notably the Uniting Business and Governments to Recover Better statement. Endorsed by more than 170 companies representing the largest ever UN-backed CEO-led climate advocacy effort, the statement urges governments around the world to align their COVID-19 recovery efforts with the latest climate science.

Business Ambition for 1.5°C campaign companies such as EDP, Enel, Iberdrola and Ørsted were also among the 200 business leaders supporting at least -55% EU emissions reductions by 2030, and many more took part in the advocacy effort through which more than 700 businesses from across the globe called on G20 leaders to go all in to limit global temperature rise to 1.5°C.

"In support of these efforts, I am calling on you, leaders from the private sector and civil society, to challenge your Governments to use this opportunity to make clear their economic development policies that will enable your companies to invest decisively in a net-zero future."

<sup>6</sup> Before November 2021, to commit to the Business Ambition for 1.5°C campaign, companies would sign the campaign commitment letter and select one or two of the following options, ticking both options corresponding to the highest level of ambition in the short and long-term:

Option 1: 1.5°C science-based emissions reduction targets: a company commits to set science-based emissions reduction targets across all scopes, in line with 1.5°C emissions scenarios and the criteria and recommendations of the SBTi. In line with the SBTi criteria, scope 3 targets are required when scope 3 emissions represent 40% or more of total emissions generated by the company.

Option 2: Net-zero science-based emissions reduction targets: a company commits to a) set a long-term science-based target to reach net-zero value chain GHGs emissions by no later than 2050 and to b) set interim science-based targets across all relevant scopes and in line with the criteria and recommendations of the SBTi. Currently, near-term science-based targets can be consistent with either of the two levels of ambition accepted by the SBTi: 1.5°C and well-below 2°C. Note that from 15 July 2022 onwards, the SBTi will no longer validate targets in line with well-below 2°C.
